

Bio-Profile of Ashish Jain

Ashish Jain is a Founder Director of Indian Pollution Control Association (NGO). He has been appointed as the expert member in various committee constituted by Central and States Govt. for improving the Solid Waste and Plastic Waste Management Rules and as Brand Ambassador by MCD Shhadara South Zone. He has more than 23 years of professional experience in the field of Solid Waste Management, Air Pollution and Environment Education and published books, research papers and articles on these subjects. He is NIUA certified trainer for solid waste management and conducted training programs for various stakeholders including ULBs' and SPCBs' enforcement personals for effective waste management practices and Rules.

Mr Jain is pioneer in conceiving and execution of EPR action plan for plastic waste management at pan India level. His expertise lies in developing sustainable supply chain of waste, recycling of plastic waste and composting of organic waste. His professional work encompasses introduction of new technologies related to waste minimization, community engagement, promotion of recycling, and exploring sustainable solutions for healthy society.

He has also established IPCA center for Waste Management & Research in collaboration with TERI School of Advance Studies and encouraging youngsters to become entrepreneurs in the field of Solid Waste Management.

He is the co- author of edit book 'Urban Environmental crisis in India: New Initiatives in Waste Management and Waste Water' and 'A handbook on Entrepreneurship in Solid Waste Management: A step towards Atmanirbhar Bharat' published by Cambridge Scholars Publishing. He has authored many articles and publications.